2. The rejection of Claims 1-6, 14-26, 29, and 31 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as unpatentable over McNabb, US Patent 6289462, in view of England et al, US Patent 6327652, and the rejection of Claims 7-13, 27, and 28 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as unpatentable over McNabb in view of England and further in view of "HP Virtualvault Trusted Web-Server Platform Product Brief" were reversed by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences (see the decision on appeal mailed 01 July 2010).
3. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

The application has been amended as follows:

IN THE ABSTRACT:

Please REPLACE the abstract with the amended abstract as set forth on the following page in clean form:

Art Unit: 2437

ABSTRACT

A method of performing a service for a requestor on a computing platform includes the requestor providing to the computing platform a specification of the service to be performed, which establishes specified levels of trust for at least some of the processes in the service. The computing platform executes the service according to the specification and logs performance of at least some of the processes for which a level of trust was specified. The computing platform then provides the requestor with a log of the performance of the processes performed according to the specified levels of trust.

A computing platform for carrying out services includes a physically and logically protected computing environment for providing trustworthy data to appropriate users of the computing platform. The platform further includes one or more compartments arranged to operate in a sufficiently constrained manner such that processes executed in a compartment are performed reliably.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 1-29 and 31 are allowed.
5. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Independent Claim 1 is directed to a method of performing a service that includes a requestor providing to a computing platform a specification of the service to be performed, where the specification establishes levels of trust for at least one process in the service; the platform executing the service according to the specification and logging performance of at least one of the processes for which a level of trust was specified; and the platform providing the requestor with the log of the performance of the processes performed according to the specified levels of trust. Independent Claim 24 is directed to a computing platform that includes a physically and logically protected computing environment and one or more compartments, in which specified processes may be executed and the results of the processes returned to the user in trustworthy data from the protected environment, and where the platform includes a service management process that receives a service description including levels of trust assigned to processes within the service and allocates at least one of the processes to the compartments. The cited closest prior art references, McNabb and England, alone or in combination, do not clearly disclose at least the limitation of a requestor providing to a computing a platform a specification that identifies a service to be performed and establishes a specified level of trust for at least one process in that service (see pages 7-8 of the decision on appeal mailed 01 July 2010). As an aside, it is noted that the

Art Unit: 2437

Board did not reach the question of whether the teachings of the cited references met the limitations relating to the logging of the processes (see page 14, footnote 5, of the decision on appeal).

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
